KI-O-RAHI

Jamein from the Whakatū Marae came to teach Nile Class a fun and highly competitive game last week. During World War Two the 28th Maori Battalion used to play it during their down times at the beach and even taught it to French and Italian soldiers where it is still played today. It incorporates techniques from rugby, netball and general ball handling skills. Round 2 will be on again this Friday at 11.30am, come along if you would like to check it out!
